Conference Overview

The Building Co-operative Futures conference focuses on youth engagement in co-operative organizations and furthering this engagement through education and community-centred participation. This conference is for youth between the ages of 19 and 35, who are members, employees, students of co-operatives, or other individuals who have a keen interest in co-operatives and the co-operative movement. The Building Co-operative Futures conference is open to participants from across Canada and around the world.

During this three-day conference, participants will attend sessions and workshops where they will:

- Analyze and discuss the co-operative model, its principles and its values;
- Review the rich history of co-operative organizations;
- Discuss the issues, challenges and opportunities facing co-operatives today;
- Consider recent innovative applications of the co-operative model;
- Explore broad issues such as globalization, economic development, urbanization, community, participation, leadership, and more.
- Examine the roles and responsibilities of co-operative members and directors;
- Receive information and resources on co-op careers, studies, and opportunities.

Participants will also discover and learn about Saskatchewan — its history, its people, and their special connections to this amazing place. Participants will visit Wanuskewin Heritage Park where they will enjoy Aboriginal – First Nations – culture, food, and dancing; they will also attend a rural hospitality night, where they will enjoy an evening of food, music and interaction, “Saskatchewan style”!

Conference registration will begin Thursday, May 12, 2005 at 5:00 p.m. Conference concludes Sunday, May 15, 2005 at 5:00 p.m.

Participants have the option of registering for an added day of workshops to focus on new co-operative development or on board and committee roles and responsibilities.
